

Imene Smati
Program Manager

Imene Smati is a second year student at UC Santa Cruz. She is studying molecular, cellular and developmental biology. She has been working on projects with FITRAH for 4 years and is currently leading a team to create an online virtual training program. In her free time she loves to travel, read and spend time with her friends and family. Her goal for this year is to increase awareness of all aspects affecting our vulnerable youth in our Sacramento community through a FaceBook group she created called Empowering Our Foster-Youth In Transition so that we can work together to support these youth and help them attain self-sufficiency.
